1. FATHER:

Don't ask me why
Some children cry
Their songs of innocence.
Why man himself
Made other men
Lose trust and confidence.

SON:

Why many good things well begun
Do not end just as well.

FATHER:

You want to know the answer, son?
A truth I cannot tell.

2. SON:

In many prisons
There are men
Who raised an honest hand
To better things and help,
But then
They were forever banned.

Why can, what has been well begun
Not end up just as well?

FATHER:

If you will know the answer, son:
No echoing can tell.

3. Forever man will try
The seas of justice
With a sail,
Stake everything on one card
And forever
Some may fail.

SON:

Why do their causes, well begun,
Not end up just as well?

FATHER:

You still wait for an answer, son?
Here's what I have to tell:

THERE WILL BE MUCH MORE RAIN TO FALL
AND MUCH HAS TO BE DONE:
SO LET US JOIN TOGETHER ALL
AND LET US FACE THE SUN.

SON:

THERE WILL BE MUCH MORE RAIN TO FALL
AND MUCH HAS TO BE DONE:
SO LET US JOIN TOGETHER ALL
AND LET US FACE THE SUN.
